

The Japanese designed a fantastic adventure bike tyre in the Bridgestone Battle Wing. These tyres will keep you safe for up to 20 000kms. It has a high grip compound that inspires confidence in the rain. In my use of these tyres I did notice that you do need push them into a corner but especially for the larger adventure bikes they will boost the confidence in all corners. The tyre does take a small bit longer to warm-up than the Metzeler Tourance. In my opinion this tyre's superb shock absorption makes it extremely enjoyable on hard/loose gravel and it handles small amounts of sand with ease. It's tread pattern design makes one of the more silent tyres in its class.
