

The Michelin Anakee 3 has big shoes to fill as the replacement of the extremely Anakee 2. The Anakee 3's strong suit is paved surfaces. It gives one of the best wet grips of all dual sport tires, but this tends to diminish somewhat when it gets close to the end of its life time (more than tyres in the same class) due to the noticeable square way in which it wears (more than average). It is a surprisingly round shaped tyre for the dual sport market. It should last you close to 20 000kms and overall is a confidence inspiring tyre in all road & weather conditions. It is able to handle pavements and hard gravel and compares with the Pirelli Scorpion Trail 2, Continental Trail Attack 2, Bridgestone A40 and Metzeler Tourance Next.

Transverse grooves efficiently evacuate water, for dependable wet-weather grip.

Beveled lateral grooves help shed mud and gravel when riding off-road.

Indented tread grooves help provide consistent lateral grip even as the tire wears.
